

Texas State Weightlifting Championships

Best Lifter Funding Document

The Texas State Weightlifting Championships provides significant cash prizes to the athletes that win the best lifter award. This document contains all the information and requirements for winning any portion of the cash prize. Each year may vary slightly from the previous year. However, a funding document will be published prior to the start of competition. The document shall be considered final and will not change unless there is a material and obvious error or omission within the document.

Aside from creating documented procedures for payouts, the purpose of this document is to help serve the Texas Weightlifting community by providing exposure and knowledge on how to qualify for international teams. While not all of USA Weightlifting's (USAW) international team qualification requirements need to be met, such as the 6-month RTP requirement, most of the USAW selection procedures will be used in terms of ranking across categories using the athlete's total.

The document will contain several sections:

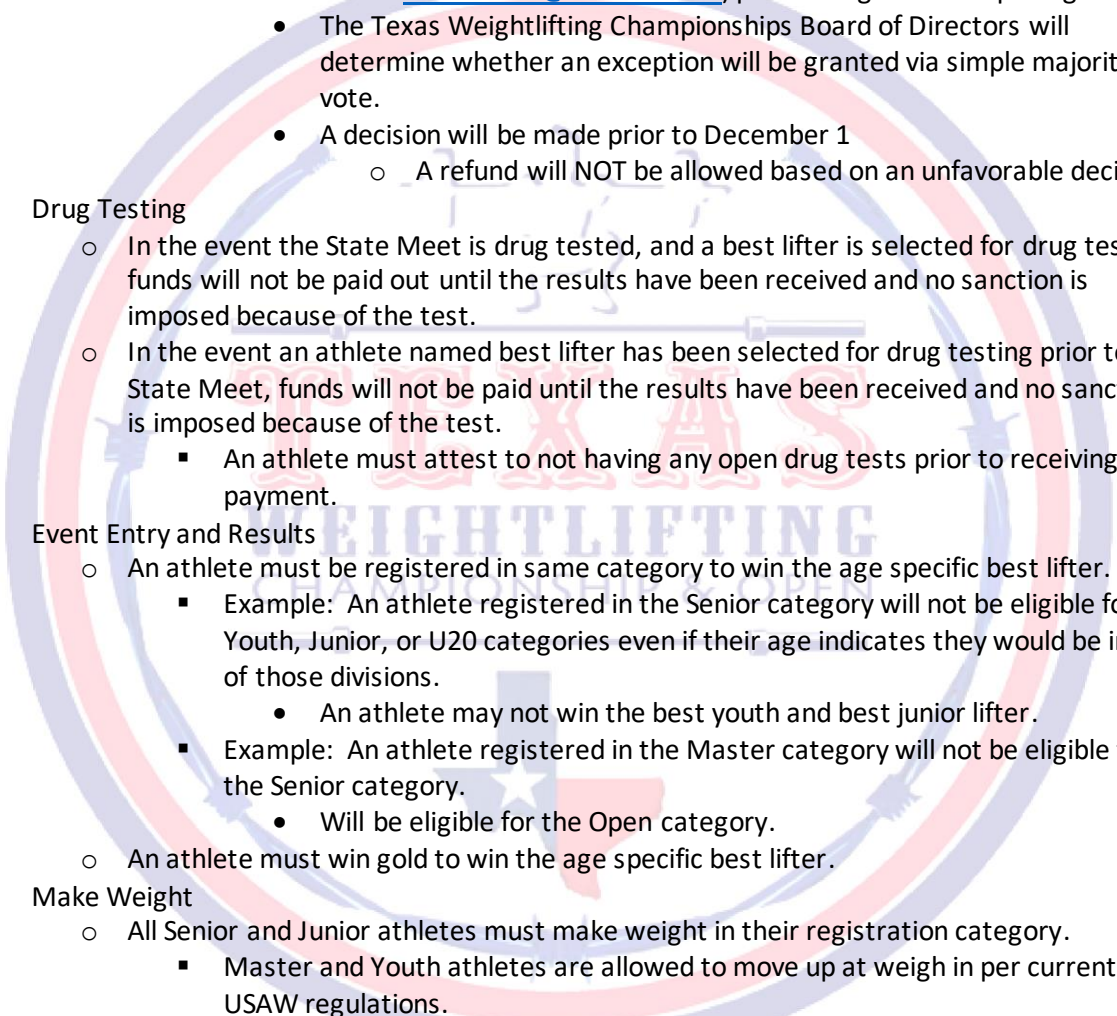

- Eligibility
- Age Groups and Age Specific Weight Categories
- Payouts
- Scoring
- Examples

Age Groups and Age Specific Weight Categories

The Texas State Weightlifting Championships will recognize the best lifter in each age category for each gender and the best overall lifters from 2 age groups, Open and U20, combining male and female results. An athlete's age on December 31 of the year of competition will determine the age at the time of the event. The age groups are defined below:

Age Specific Best Lifter

USAW ages differ slightly from the IWF rulebook as there will be no minimum age for the youth, junior, and senior categories. A lifter from both genders will be named an age specific best lifter for a total of 8. The lifter must compete in the age category to be named best age specific lifter. Example, a lifter signed up to compete in the youth category can only win the best youth lifter. They will not be eligible to double/triple dip as the best junior and/or senior lifter.

- Youth – 17U
- Junior – 20U
- Senior – Any age
- Master – 35+

Overall Best Lifter

There will only be 2 categories for the best overall lifter with a max of 3 athletes per category named best overall lifter. A lifter from the U20 can be named best lifter in the U20 and Open categories.

- Open – All lifters are included
- U20 – Only youth and junior lifters are included

Age Specific Weight Categories

The IWF provides youth weight categories and they vary slightly from all other weight categories. USAW provides for multiple age divisions in the youth category and each of those categories have their own unique weight categories. All best lifter awards will utilize the IWF specified categories for ranking. Any athlete not competing in an IWF category will be placed in the proper category based on body weight at weigh in. Below are some examples:

- Youth Best Lifter
 - Any youth female athlete competing in the 40kg category or less will be in the 40kg category
 - Any youth male athlete competing in the 49kg or less will be in the 49kg category
 - Any youth athlete aged 15 and under that competes in their respective top category will be placed in the proper IWF Youth category based on body weight
- All Other Best Lifter Awards
 - Any youth female athlete ranked in the 40kg category will be in the 45kg category
 - Any youth male athlete ranked in the 49kg will be in the 55kg category
 - Any youth athlete ranked in their respective top category will be placed in the proper IWF Senior category based on body weight

Scoring

The Best Lifter will be determined by the USA Weightlifting procedures in place at the time of registration to qualify for the appropriate age category's world championship. Note that the backup will be Q Scores should a policy not be available or the policy in place can't be applied.

Best lifters will be determined by the selection policy created by USAW for World Championship events in the Senior, Junior, and Youth categories. Each category has a ranking total that an athlete's total will be divided by to determine a score. Below are the totals that will be used for the 2025 Texas State Weightlifting Championships.
